

FOLLOW THAT SMELL

A cartoon illustration of a yellow dog with black outlines and a red collar. The dog is looking upwards with a surprised or excited expression, its mouth open as if barking. It is set against a background of green and blue washes.

So stinky...

So very stinky...

So...

Wait

This doesn't smell like a dream.
It smells more like --

A call?

An invitation?

A COMMAND.
To GET UP

and follow my nose to the--

Creek?

"Excuse me, nice doggy..."

"If you help me find
my nuts, I could show
you the way across."

Well, sure, with my big doggie

EYES

I could easily
spot them all.

But...

I want to follow the stinky.

I guess I won't follow the stinky.

There's a bunch.

Up there.

In here.

And there.

Found one.

And some more.

Over there.

And
there.

"You did it!"

cheered the Squirrel.
"Now follow your smell over that--"

"Hello, young pup.
If you help us rebuild
our burrow, we could show you the
way around."

Tree?

Obviously, with my big doggie

PAWS

I could easily
dig them a new home.

But...

What about the stinky?

The stinky can wait.

"You did it!"

cheered Mama Bunny.
"Now follow your smell through those-"

Thorns?

"Greetings, dog.
If you chase these birds out
for me, I might show you
the way through ."

Of course,
with my big doggie

BARK

I could easily chase
those birdies out.

But...

I'm not going to follow the stinky.

BARK!

BARK!

BARK!

The smell.

It's lost.

And so am I.

“Hey!”
“Over here!”

“We'll show
you the way!”

Follow us!

Go!

Right!

Not
there!

Run run run!

Left!

Down there!

Almost
there!

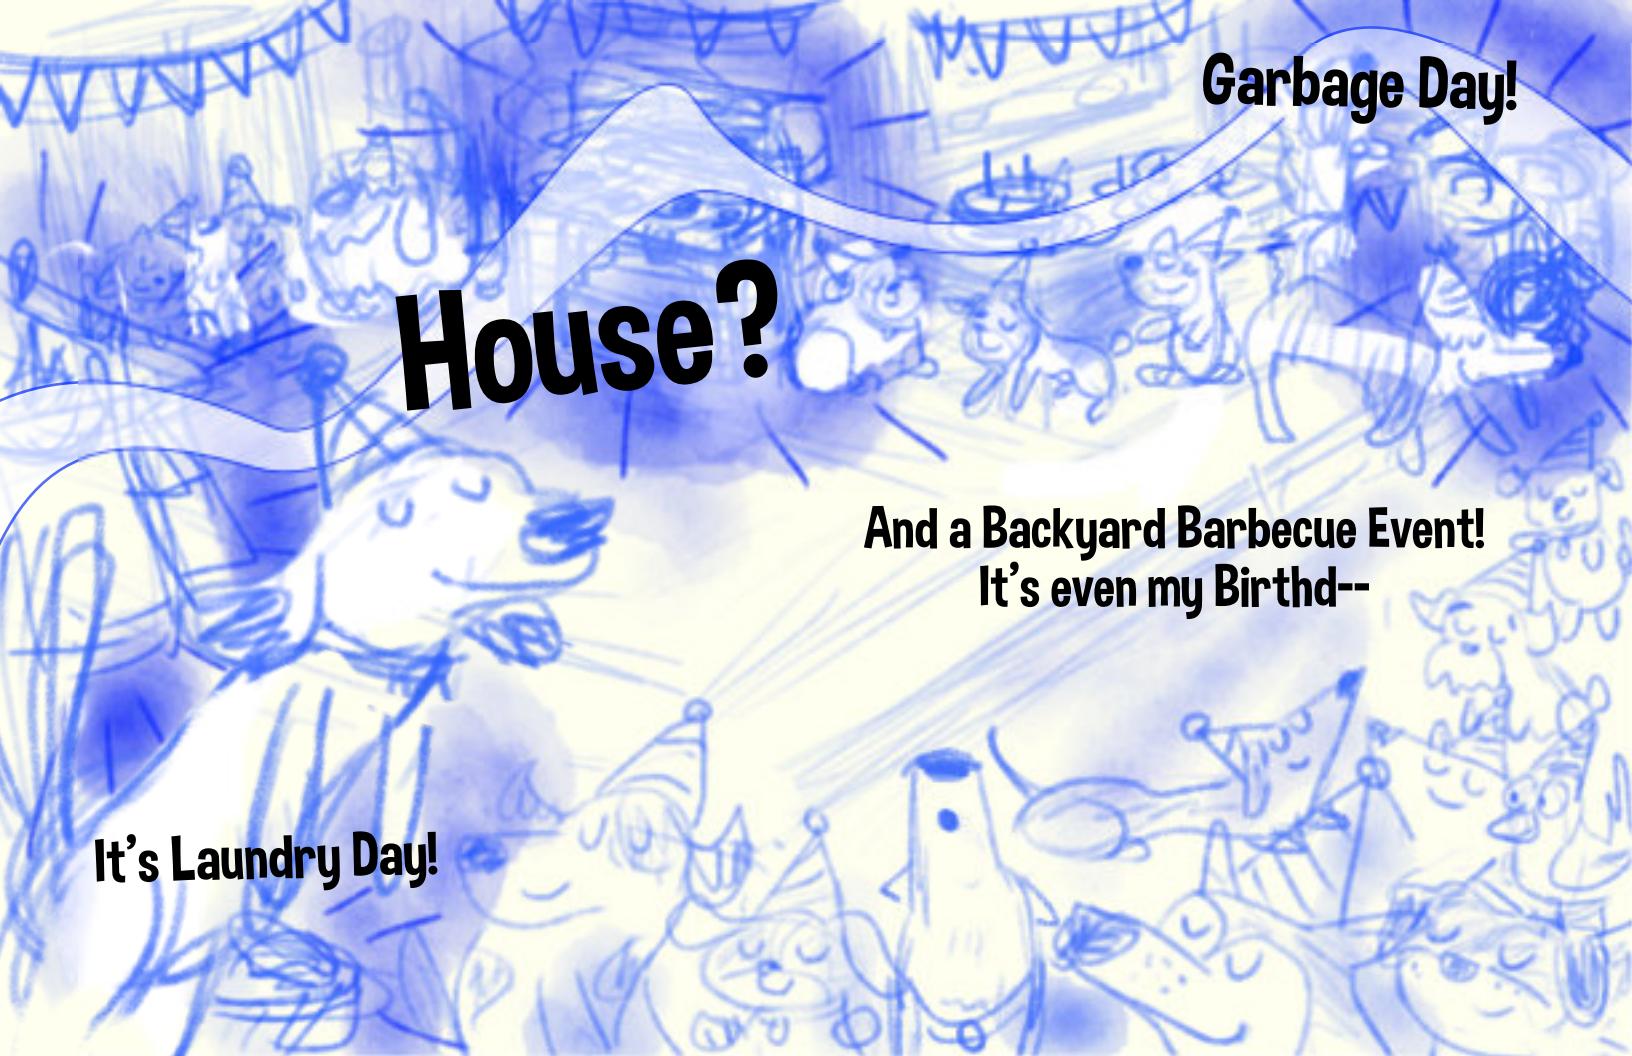

Your
other
left!

Turn around!

Yes!

“You did it!”

cheered the critters.
“Now follow your smell back to your--”

Garbage Day!

House?

And a Backyard Barbecue Event!
It's even my Birthd--

It's Laundry Day!

What's

that sound?
